CADDIE RULES

On the weekend and holidays, players are required to take a caddie, if one is available. If there are not enough caddies available, then the assigning of caddies is at starter's discretion.

Reserving a caddie is permissible except when caddie tournament rules apply.

No group shall have two caddies when other groups do not have any, even if they have reserved a caddie.

When having guests to play, on any day of the week, and at anytime, it is recommended you contact the starter in advance to reserve a caddie for your group.

Caddie tournament rules:

If there are not enough caddies to go around, then tournament play takes priority and the players in the tournament will be assigned a caddie for the day. Players not in tournament have no standing, for that day, in regard to getting a caddie unless there are enough to go around. This includes players not in the tournament, who usually reserve a specific caddie. The reserved caddie will be assigned on any given tournament day if a shortage of caddies exists.

Players in the tournament may reserve a caddie for play.

No group shall have two caddies when other groups do not have any, even if they have reserved a caddie.

Any dispute will be decided by the starter.
